

NOBODY ALIVE HAS SEEN THE SKY.

You keep the pumps alive at the bottom of a mile-deep concrete cylinder. The Broadcast says the surface is dead. Last week you found a box of photographs that says otherwise — green hills, a sun, and a log signed by an inspector who walked out of the top airlock and came back.

FIFTY-NINE LEVELS TO THE TRUTH.

- 59 screens across three zones — machine decks, agricultural terraces, administrative floors
- Cable whip, duck and slide. Ballistic jumps with air control and mid-fall ladder grabs
- Five colours of keycard, armoured doors, sealed vaults opened by switches on other levels
- A shaft that remembers: doors stay open, cards stay taken, switches stay thrown
- 100% machine code. Compiled sprites, hardware double buffering, AY sound

COPYING IS PERMITTED — AND ENCOURAGED

Lend it. Copy it. Upload it. Software survives only because people did.

THE SHAFT
CPC 6128

